

Three interpretations of suitable art.
An exhibition of painting and installation by Harvey Yalonelsky,
Fiona Smyth and Andrew OI.

In conjunction with the Festival of Canadian Fashion

An Uncommon
Thread

An Uncommon
Thread

Entrance with Admission
The Festival of Canadian Fashion

Metro Toronto Convention Centre
255 Front Street West
Toronto, Ontario (416) 585-8000

Opening Night Gala
Wednesday April 22 7 P.M. to Midnight
Thursday April 23 11:30 A.M. to 1:15 A.M.
Friday April 24 11:30 A.M. to 1:15 A.M.
Saturday April 25 11:30 A.M. to 1:15 A.M.
Sunday April 26 11:30 A.M. to 8:30 P.M.

Organized by
Harvey Yalonelsky

Consultant
Carla Gamet

Patrons

Britches Classic Sport
Braemore Neckwear
The Festival of Canadian Fashion

1987

Harvey
Yalonetsky

30 years later Harvey Yalonetsky appears from the clothing closet with work that breaks the dress code as it flirts with debunking the mysteries of men's wear. He does this by optically pushing the fabric swatch into a larger POP scale. Yalonetsky patternally plays with the personality of pattern while creating gregarious garments. These come in the form of tooth pick applied glitter packed acrylic goop cutouts of jackets, shirts and ties, the result being an assorted sartorial euphoria.

Carla Garnet .87

Harvey Yalonetsky is originator and co-owner of Beau Brummell Men's Fashion Store, Toronto

Fiona
Smyth

"For me art is an emotive thing. You do what feels good, what looks good. Not unlike fashion. Whatever turns you on, whatever makes you feel most comfortable.

My tarts are women in whore's clothing. They are bad/good. Good girls gone bad. It's a tart/madonna syndrome.

The length of a skirt is no longer an issue. It's what you've got in mind that counts.

Enjoy the boy."

Fiona Smyth .87

Fiona Smyth is represented by Weller-Potovsky Gallery
104.5 Scoll
Toronto, C
(416) 967

Andrew 01

- Direct Action with Decoration
- Andrew 01 has materialized with a new collection of "Scenic Suits".
- Urban camouflage an essential survival tactic for living in the concrete jungle and resisting the tyranny of urban rectangularization.

Δ01 .87

Andrew 01 is represented by Garnet Press
580 Richmond Street
Toronto, Ontario
(416) 366 5012